A Very Warm Welcome

It was brilliant to see so many of our new Year 7s at the Transition Twilight event this week—and to see our current students braving the heat to extend a really warm welcome. Whether they were serving refreshments, selling essential kit, helping out in taster sessions or answering parents' questions, all of our students were great 'work hard, be kind' ambassadors and showed how well they could work as a team; really looking forward to doing it all again next week for our Year 4&5 Open Evening!

We also welcomed news this week that Kian's winning entry in the BAFTAKids Selfie competition has now been included in a short film created by Karrot Animation (award-winning creators of series like 'Sarah and Duck') Watch the 'Being Ourselves' animation or click here to find out more about exactly what was involved in transforming Kian's drawing. A big well done to Kian who also walked away with a whole host of BAFTA prizes!

And as the mercury seems to keep rising, things have also been heating up in the House Point stakes with the first of two deciding inter-house matches played out in the afternoon sun this week (see below). Particular well done to Beacon who topped the table on Thursday with 58 House Points—Game on!
